NEWS AND VIEWS FOR AND FROM KNIGHTS

Lady Knights win 3rd Championship

by James Sablan for Marianas Variety

Mount Carmel School Lady Knights prolonged their supremacy earning their third straight championship title in the 2016-2017 Commonwealth Coalition of Private School Sports Association Middle School Basketball League girls division defeating Seventh Day Adventist 17-10 last Monday held at the Gilbert C. Ada Gym.

Both teams struggled to find their footing during the first quarter.

The MCS Knights' aggressive efforts on the defensive end closed out all the lanes denying SDA any chance. Their strategy worked like a charm as they forced a handful of turnovers as they gave SDA's ball handlers no room to breathe leaving them completely scoreless.

But SDA geared up for a stronger offense until they brought the ball down past half court and put up several attempted shots but only connected two buckets to take control 4-0.

More of the same was seen throughout the second canto as MCS Knights pressure defense remained effective.

Kaia Travilla and Gia Hemley took advantage of each successful steal finishing with two points each to extend the deficit alongside Fiona Bucalig's consistency carrying the team with six points.

SDA finally snapped out of the cold spell during the third quarter.

They had better ball movement and took more shots putting up all 10 points.

But even with SDA's sudden burst, the MCS Knights regained their defensive output at the final quarter leaving them scoreless once again while draining a couple more shots to secure the win and the championship title 17-10.

53 Knights Inducted into Honor Societies

This past week, 53 students were inducted into Mount Carmel School's Immaculate Conception Chapter of the National Junior Honor Society (NJHS) and Father Arnold Bendowski Chapter of the National Elementary Honor Society (NEHS).

Bishop Ryan Jimenez, was on hand to help celebrate the special occasion. He also opened the induction ceremony with a prayer and a blessing of the candles representing the values of the honor societies.

After the blessing, school president, Galvin Deleon Guerrero, welcomed everyone gathered with opening remarks. In his remarks, Deleon Guerrero challenged all students, whether inducted or not, to see themselves as more than who they are now and, instead, all they can be in the future.

Soon after Fr. Ryan's blessing, current honor society students explained the respective values of the honor societies. For the NJHS, those values are scholarship, service, leadership, character, and citizenship. As for the NEHS, its values are scholarship, responsibility, leadership, and service. Students who have a 3.0 GPA fulfill the scholarship value of each society and are invited to apply for membership, for which they must demonstrate that they embody the other values of each respective society.

After the honor societies' were explained, inductees were identified by the ceremonious "tapping" ritual, in which current honor society members go around tapping inductees on their shoulders and inviting them to the main staging area to take their oaths, receive their membership insignia, and sign into the membership ledger.
